ABSTRACT

This resource guide offers descriptions of community resources, field trips, human resources, and resource materials available to teachers and parents in New York City. The resources, covering a wide variety of curriculum areas, are listed separately by borough (Bronx, Brooklyn, Manhattan, Queens, and Staten Island). Manhattan is further divided into four geographical areas. Each description includes the resource type (community resources, field trips, human resources, or resource materials), general information, curriculum areas, and target groups. Also included is miscellaneous information such as educational services and materials provided, costs, and hours of operation. A curriculum area index is provided for each resource type. The curriculum areas most often listed are social studies, art, and special education. (DC)

FOREWORD

This publication has been prepared by the New York City Teacher Centers Consortium which is a cooperative project of the United Federation of Teachers, the Board of Education, participating Community School Districts and the High School Division. The resource information contained in Centering On A Quick Reference Booklet for Teachers and Parents was identified, compiled and written by the Consortium's Publication and Dissemination Center in response to expressed requests by parents and teachers of New York City school children.

One primary purpose of the Publication and Dissemination Center is to share information and successful teaching practices by identifying and disseminating publications that have been suggested and written by teachers. Teachers are invited to submit innovative instructional curriculum materials and ideas which have been found to enhance the learning potential of students.

INTRODUCTION

CENTERING ON A QUICK REFERENCE RESOURCE BOOKLET FOR NEW YORK CITY TEACHERS AND PARENTS was organized and written so that the reader can quickly locate and utilize the appropriate resource information. There are two ways of retrieving the information from the publication: one, is by BOROUGH and the other is by referring to the CURRICULUM AREA INDEX on page 84.

The resources are listed alphabetically by borough. Manhattan is divided into four areas because of the heavy concentration of resources.

BROOKLYN (K) _____ page 7
MANHATTAN / Downtown (M/D) - from Liberty Island to 4th Street _____ page 15
MANHATTAN / Fifth Avenue (M/F) _____ page 23
MANHATTAN / East Side (M/E) - from Fifth Avenue to the East River _____ page 32,33
MANHATTAN / West Side (M/W) - from Fifth Avenue to the Hudson River ___ page 51,52
QUEENS (Q) _____ page 74

After each borough listing, the reader will find resource abstracts with brief and concise descriptions of pertinent information grouped by specific topics.

The CURRICULUM AREA INDEX is another way of quickly finding specific resource information using the CURRICULUM AREA and RESOURCE TYPES. The Resource Types are: Community Resources, Field Trips, Human Resources, and Resource Materials.

If there are resources worthy of mention that have not been included in this publication, we would like to know about it. Your input is welcome!
